Bibendum Portfolio 2018

There is no doubt that 2017 was one of the most challenging and volatile climatic conditions for wine production on record. Devastating bush fires and prolonged heatwaves, severe drought and bitter arctic frosts resulted in a headline 10% global volume reduction in 2017. However, we are extremely fortunate to work with the world's most experienced and resilient producers and, against all odds, they have continued to do what they do best: working tirelessly to craft some of the world's most delicious wines. I am pleased to say that while volume has been impacted, quality certainly has not, and across the range, the 2017 vintage is tasting fantastic.

Our 2018 list showcases over 100 new wines, and we introduce you to over 20 new producers from far flung corners of the globe. We are delighted to welcome iconic winemakers from Australia: Spinifex Wines and Rieslingfreak; as well as two exciting new South African producers, Strydom Vineyards from the Helderberg in Stellenbosch and Benguela Cove in Walker Bay. We are proud to bring you new additions from across Europe – including Grower Champagnes and independent producers in Italy and Spain. Closer to home we are pleased to introduce Greyfriars, one of the most exciting English wine producers with a range of excellent-value wines.

In a list full of long-standing favourites and iconic producers from the classic countries of Europe, we have continued to exploit our buyers' expertise for discovering exciting French producers from off the beaten track. This year they introduce hidden gems from areas of Southern France, such as Pic St Loup and Costieres de Nimes, as well as uncovering the expressive Alsatian wines of biodynamic producer Kreydenweiss.

In addition to our core range, our Fine Wine team can help you really 'gem' up your wine list. Alongside the classics of Bordeaux, Burgundy and Super Tuscans, we are always on the lookout for bluechip producers or rare old vintages. Find out more about our Fine Wine range and upcoming tastings on p7.

We offer a great range of spirits and craft beers (more on p144 onwards), as well as nonalcoholic alternatives and softs such as the brand new Primrose Hill premium mixers. You can also take a look at our growing sake range on p141.

Our award-winning Market Insights team continues their brilliant work at predicting trends using various cutting-edge tools. Visit our website to read the 2018 Trends Report, featuring the rise in English sparkling wine and the premiumisation of Languedoc and Roussillon.

Last year our wine range was recognised by the industry's leading On Trade wine critics at the prestigious Sommelier Wine Awards, where we won the coveted Merchant of the Year award. This year we have further indulged ourselves and our pioneering spirit has never been so dynamic. I do hope you enjoy our 2018 collection as much as we have enjoyed creating it.

Yours sincerely

While we understand that the quality and value of our range is important, we have invested heavily over the past year in our service proposition and added value. Our efforts have intensified in terms of customer training, with the recent launch of our blended e-learning, and the quality of our service was once again acknowledged by the Wine & Spirit Education Trust

About Us

Bibendum is one of the UK's most successful drinks businesses. As a premium wine and spirits partner, we are a countrywide specialist for the Ôn Trade.

With a portfolio including 270 wine producers – and over 90% of these exclusive - we work with some of the world's most incredible and authentic producers. In addition to wine, we also sell an extensive range of premium spirits, craft beers and ciders, and a growing range of sakes.

We are passionate and knowledgeable about wine, and committed to helping you grow your business. We serve an ever-increasing range of customers, from Michelin-starred restaurants and cocktail bars, to catering companies and pub groups. Our skilled and diligent sales teams operate up and down the country, from Brighton and Birmingham, to London and Glasgow.

The Bibendum service doesn't stop at just delivering great products. Our awardwinning training team travel around the country to help your staff become wellversed in the different styles and products you sell – and not just for wine. We also offer sake, spirits and beer training. We have an in-house design team who can help you take your drinks list to the next level, while also helping you bring promotions and merchandising to life.

In the end it's about creating a successful, lasting business partnership that works for both of us. Call us on 0845 263 6924 or visit www.bibendum-wine.co.uk.

Nothing is more important to us than customer service and getting the basics right. We are committed to constantly improving our systems to provide the best possible service for all our customers.

We're clear about our environmental responsibilities

We work with customers and producers to adopt environmental policies and promote sustainable practices.

We actively choose the most energy saving, environmentally friendly and sustainable options when we buy, package and distribute our products. Vivid highlights our producers that are organic, biodynamic and sustainable, while supporting our Fairtrade and not-forprofit producers.

We're one of the very few UK drinks businesses certified with ISO 14001, the international standard for environmental management systems, and it applies to all our work sites.

Bibendum Fine Wine

Bibendum's Fine Wine team can help you to really 'gem' up your wine list. Alongside the classics of Bordeaux, Burgundy and Super Tuscans, we are always on the lookout for bluechip producers or rare old vintages.

Our Fine Wine list consists of around 300 ever-changing lines and gets published once a week. Since we are trading with small parcels, it is worth to have a look at each fresh offer - we always add some new, exciting lines. If you cannot find what you're looking for in our current offer, please get in touch and the Fine Wine team will be happy to source whatever you're looking for.

We source directly from a growing number of domains and chateaus, working closely with the best negociants around the world. Our offer naturally covers Bordeaux, Burgundy and the Rhone; alongside the best regions of Italy, Spain and Germany; a great selection of California; and the finest wines of the Southern Hemisphere.

We have recently also started listing tiny, experimental parcels from our best core producers, as well as the library stock of some of our finest winemakers. If you're looking for an older vintage of a well-known Bibendum wine, do get in touch with the Fine Wine team.

If you're interested in our Fine Wine offer, or would like to talk about how we can make your wine list more profitable, please get in touch at FineWineTrade@bibendum-wine.co.uk

Cellar Sweep

Twice each year the Fine Wine team hold a #cellarsweep, the ultimate Bibendum Fine Wine sale where we discount more than 100 lines, adding real rarities to the offer. The discounted deal is aimed at hard-working sommeliers, so we publish it at midnight, just when the somm teams finish working.

Omar Raafat, channel director, together with the rest of the team – Joe, Robert and Gergely - are always happy to help you make the most of your wine list: be it an entire fine and rare programme, a Coravin offer of fine wines by the glass, or just a few additions to spice up the top end of your wine list - the team will find the best solution to make your wine list more profitable and fun for your real wine aficionado customers.

Buyers' Picks

Rieslinafreak No 5 Clare Valley Riesling (p120)

"Owner and winemaker John Hughes is a rising star in Australia and the Rieslingfreak wines are seriously-hot property. This off-dry expression of Riesling comes from John's family vineyard at White Hut in Clare; at 500m above sea level the altitude undeniably plays a part in the delicacy and elegance of this wine. It's incredibly pure, with aromas of cut grass, honeydew melon and tangy citrus on the palate."

Matt Smith

La Dama Valpolicella Classico (p56)

"A relatively new producer having started their estate in 2006, La Dama's vineyards are situated in the best commune of Valpolicella, Negrar, and they are organically certified. The Valpolicella Classico is a vibrant red that expresses bright, fragrant cherry fruit and a touch of earthy spice on the finish. It is fresh, elegant and super balanced."

Matt Smith

ELD ESTATE

Lacourte Godbillon Terroirs D'Ecueil ler Cru Brut (pl4)

"There is a reason why the big houses prize Pinot Noir from the Premier Cru village of Ecueil. But to really understand this in a glass, what better than a small grower like Lacourte Godbillon? Terroirs D'Ecueil has concentrated ripe white fruits, balanced by racy acidity, distinct minerality, and almond and brioche notes."

Jamie Avenell

Bodeaas Bhilar Phinca Lali Single Vineyard (p68)

"One of the stars of Rioja, David Sampedro is dogged in his dedication to his organically-farmed vineyards. The Phinca Lali is exceptionally fragrant with aromas of dark fruits, lavender and Asian spices. It shows dense black fruit balanced by crisp acidity, with a complexity that evolves with every sip." Jamie Avenell

Domaine Roux Les Cotilles Chardonnay (p33)

"New to Bibendum's range is Domaine Roux et Fils Les Cotilles Chardonnay and Pinot Noir Vin de France. Made from fruit sourced from a variety of cool-climate regions across France and young vines from Roux's own vineyards in Burgundy, they offer brilliant quality Burgundian style at a fraction of the price."

Alastair Pyatt

Sprinafield Special Cuvee Sauvignon Blanc (pll2)

"The winery that put Robertson on the map. This small, family-run winery has been a partner of Bibendum's for 22 years and continues to produce wines of the highest calibre. As with all Springfield wines, this is a site-specific wine, full of passionfruit, zesty minerality and a complex, long mouthfeel."

COTILLES Churdonnay

"One of the larger grape growers in Napa, this is a close-knit family business in Carneros, with Anthony Truchard at the helm. They produce fantastic quality and value wines from this premier Californian region. From 18- to 40-year-old vines on different sites, this wine is big and bold with flavours of plum, berries and spice."

Steenberg Merlot (pll2)

"One of the top estates in Constantia, Steenberg continues to deliver stunning wines that have a great balance of minerality, elegance and refined fruit characters. Cool-climate conditions allow this wine to slowly achieve full ripeness without any green tannins, resulting in a fresh, vibrant red wine with hints of strawberries and cherries."

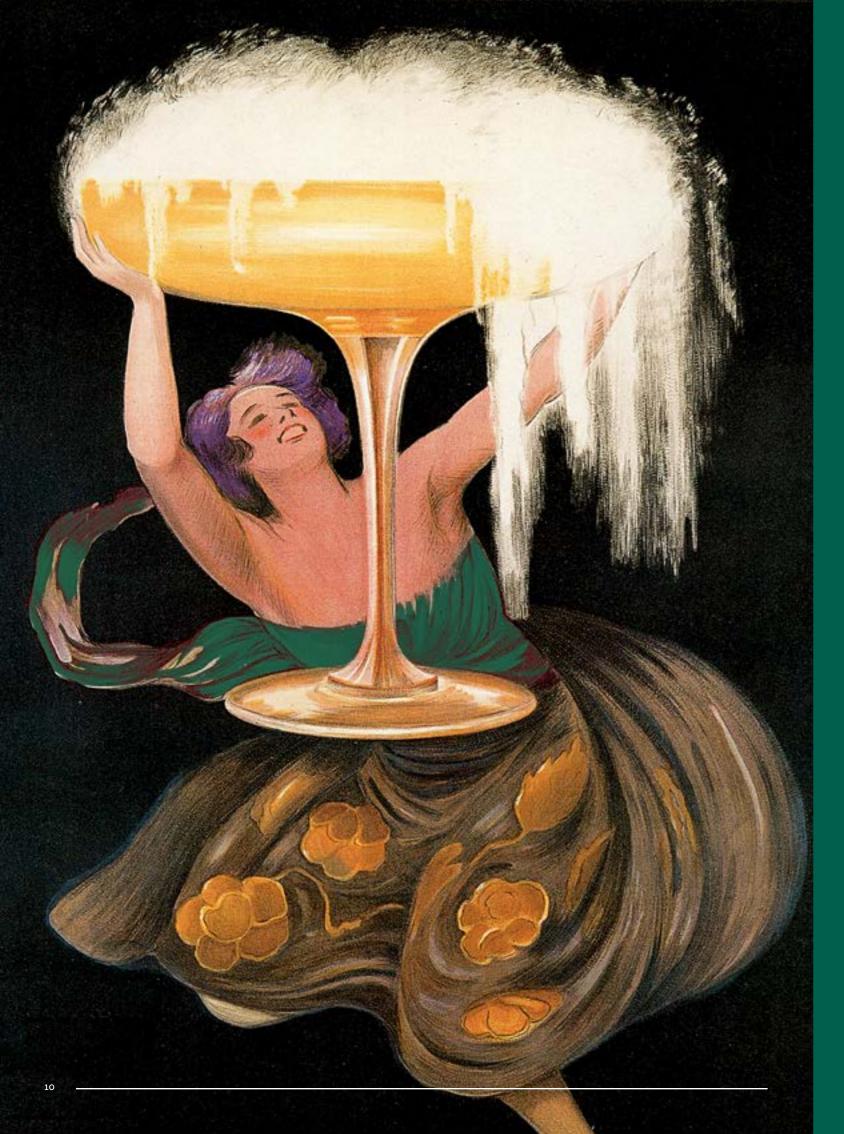

Paul Meihuizen

Litmus Element 20 (p77)

"English still wine has a distance to travel, which is what makes the Litmus wines so impressive. These are seriously good cool-climate wines in their own right. This combination of Chardonnay and Bacchus beautifully blends apple and citrus fruit, with toasty, biscuity overtones. It's textured and complex, with great length."

Bruno Paillard

Bruno Paillard is a young, dynamic Champagne House that has quickly established a reputation for elegant wines with real style. Fresh, dry and vibrant, these wines are made with an uncompromising attitude to quality that shines through in the glass.

Originally a Champagne broker, Bruno Paillard started his own Maison in Reims back in 1981 – the first new Champagne House in more than a century. The challenges involved in taking on the region's established names would have stopped lesser men than Bruno, but over the last three decades Bruno and his daughter, Alice, have turned this eponymous business into one of the most prestigious in Champagne.

Paillard is still an independent just 17 of the 320 villages.

Palmer & Co.

Palmer & Co. is one of our favourite Champagne Houses, no doubt! Founded in 1947, Palmer is an ultra-premium Champagne producer with over 200ha of vineyards classified as Grand and Premier Crus in the Montagne de Reims area.

Their wines mature in a maze of deep, chalky galleries, remaining in contact with the lees for at least four years for the Palmer Brut Reserve, six to eight years for the vintage cuvees and up to 10 years or more for magnums and larger format bottles. Unanimously appreciated for their excellence and elegance, Palmer's cuvees are regularly distinguished in major international wine competitions.

"Palmer & Co. is a shining star in Champagne, in keeping with the cellar philosophy 'Palmer has time', the wines are aged for an exceptionally long time," says Essi Avellan, Master of Wine.

The Champagne Palmer Blanc de Blancs NV won a gold medal at both the SWA and IWC 2017 awards.

NEW | Lacourte Codbillon

Now in their third generation, family-owned Lacourte Godbillon is a top-quality and well-known Grower Champagne from the Montagne de Reims. For current owner and winemaker Geraldine Lacourte and husband, Richard Desvigries, their vision is simple: the wine must be an expression of its terroir.

They are true growers in every sense, owning all 8ha of their vineyards and working with a small team of only five people (except during harvest, of course). Lacourte Godbillon are in their second year of converting to organic production and have started to implement biodynamic practices.

95% of their grapes are grown on the Premier Cru terroir of Ecueil, an area well known for incredible Pinot Noir production. This varietal constitutes the majority of plantings across their 50 different plots.

NEW | R. Pouillon & Fils

A true Grower Champagne from the very beginning, Fabrice Pouillon continues to build on what his father and grandfather created, crafting unique and artisanal Champagnes.

Owning 6.5ha of land across the Grand Cru of Ay, and throughout the Vallee de la Marne and Montagne de Reims, Fabrice creates expressive and terroirdriven wines that are vibrantly aromatic. Dedicated to the vitality, energy and health of his vineyards, Fabrice began the conversion to organics in 2003 and today also incorporates biodynamic principles.

The wines age in a combination of older oak demi-muids and barriques, where everything undergoes complete malolactic fermentation. Reserve wines are aged for up to 18 months in wooden tanks and there is a 'solera' system in operation, with wines dating back to the late 1990s.

De Castellane

De Castellane was established in 1895 by the Viscount Florens de Castellane, heir to one of the oldest families in France. A visionary who was determined to promote his brand to the whole world, the Viscount chose his logo as the red 'St. Andrews' cross as a tribute to the oldest regiment in the Champagne region.

Based in the centre of Epernay, the impressive 'Belle Epoque' listed headquarters of Champagne de Castellane were built around 1890, and designed by architect Auguste Toudoire; famous for grand railway stations such as the Gare de Lyon in Paris. The buildings are topped by a striking 66m high tower – a landmark in Epernay and an emblem for the region – and there are 6km of cellars underground.

Serge Mathieu

Situated in the southernmost part of Champagne, Serge Mathieu is one of the region's leading small growers. The Mathieus have lived in Avirey-Lingey since at least the mid-18th century, building up a vineyard that now covers some 30 acres. Today more than 100,000 bottles of their Champagne are sold per year, 80% of them on the export market. The vineyards are sustainably farmed by Serge's son in law, Michel Jacob, and daughter Isabelle.

In just 40 years, Serge Mathieu has managed to forge a style that places it among the best producers from the Aube. Michel and Isabelle are some of our most meticulous producers and their wines are cellared for three to five years before release. This extra ageing – which is an unusual practice for small producers enables them to use very low dosage levels, thus preserving the purity and elegance of the natural fruit flavours.

Cavicchioli

Cavicchioli is synonymous with Lambrusco in Italy. Located in Emilia-Romagna, the winery is a stone's throw from some of the most famous centres of Italian gastronomy: Parma, Modena and Bologna. So it is no mean feat that the winemakers are seen as an institution and over the generations the wine has played an important role in the local Modenese community.

Founded in 1928 after Umberto Cavicchioli decided to turn the laboratory behind his house into a winery, the innovation continues today. This is a modern style of Lambrusco: lighter and fragrant without any of the shrillness. If you don't think Lambrusco can be a serious wine, think again.

Coates & Seely

When two old friends, Nicholas Coates and Christian Seely, came across the chalk-rich Wooldings vineyard in the North Hampshire Downs, their plan was simple: use traditional Champagne methods alongside cutting-edge winemaking technology to reflect the unique terroir of this corner of southern England.

Just 80 miles north of the chalk hills of Champagne, the area enjoys virtually identical soil, geological structure and a substantially similar climate to its French cousin, which provide the ideal conditions for growing great Chardonnay, Pinot Noir and Pinot Meunier. In the Autumn, grapes are carefully handharvested and taken to the winery, where a variety of modern and traditional winemaking techniques are employed, including the use of well-aged French oak barrels and concrete eggs.

"I really try and capture the fruit characteristics of any particular variety; respect the primary fruit flavours firstly and then use the tools available in building complexity. It's always my aim to contribute elegance and finesse. The wines are never 'in your face'. At the end of the day you should be drinking the authentic style of the wines, not aiming for showmanship. With bubbly it's even more vital to create finesse and elegance. The smaller you can create that bubble, the better the chances that the wine will develop gentle flavours."

Pieter Ferreira, cellarmaster, Graham Beck

France

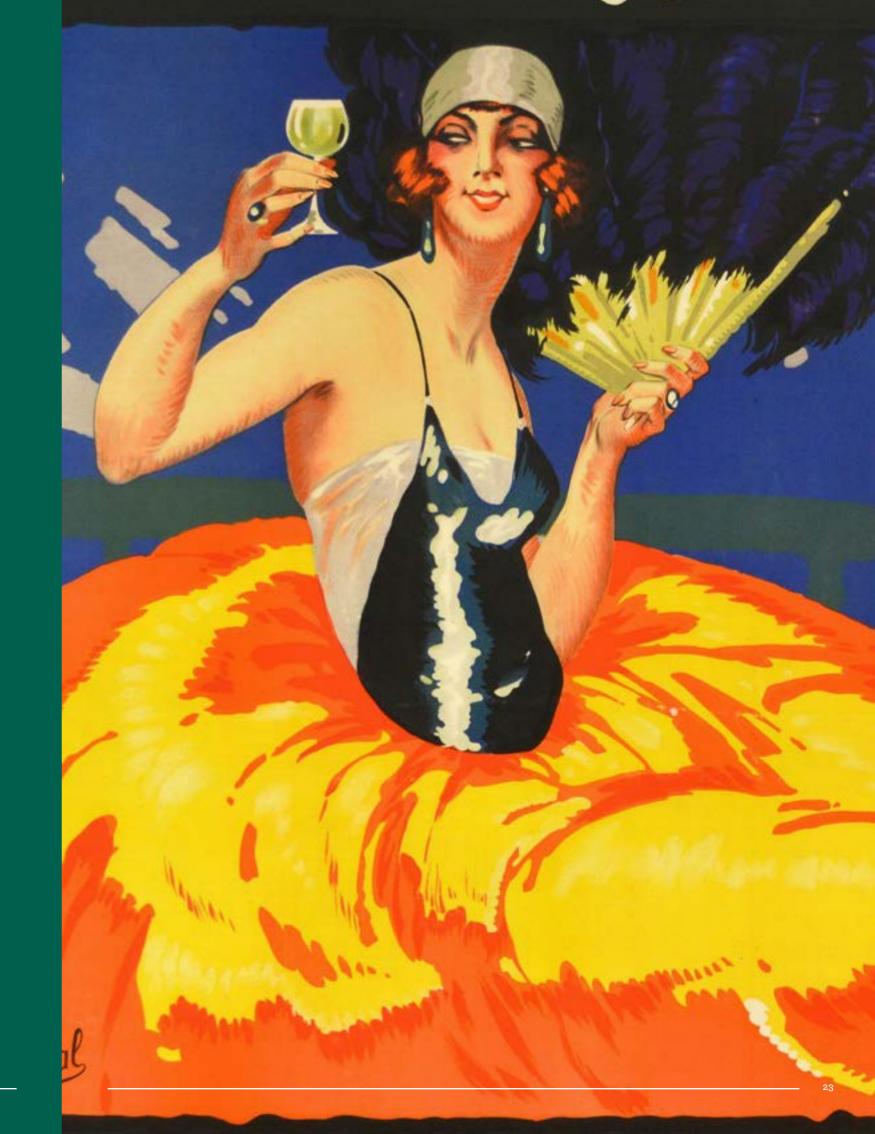

From their hemp winery to the barley, bulgur and mustard that grows between rows and is ploughed into the soil, Chateau Maris is biodynamic through and through.

"We believe that the plant itself has a soul - we believe in the individuality of the plant."

Bertie Eden, Chateau Maris

"We are seeing a distinct premiumisation of Provence rosé, with some great-quality examples out there. The popularity of pale rosé is not only linked to the fact that the wine is very easy drinking and has an attractive colour, but it is also due to the idea that we are importing the lifestyle that comes with it to the UK."

Alsace France

NEW | Domaine Marc Kreydenweiss

With three centuries of viticulture in his family history, Marc Kreydenweiss is one of the most sought-after producers in Alsace today. In the 44 years of running his eponymous domaine, Marc has evolved his viticultural practices and since 1989, they have been operating completely biodynamically.

The winery is located in Andlau, between Strasbourg and Colmar, in the area of Piemont des Vosges. Nestled at the foot of the mountains, the vineyards benefit from a continental climate, while the soils offer a unique mosaic of terroirs.

Following in his father's footsteps, Marc's son Antoine Kreydenweiss took over the vineyard management in 2007. With 13.5ha, their vineyards cover three of the Grand Crus of Andlau: Wiebelsberg, Moenchberg and Kastelberg, as well as a new Grand Cru in Barr, called Kirchberg.

Alastair Pyatt, Bibendum buyer for France, says, "These are some of the best wines I've tasted in Alsace, from some of the best terroir in a steep and hilly area. Despite the relatively small size of the domaine, there is an incredibly diverse mixture of terroir. Family-run and with minimum intervention, it's all about natural and biodynamic production for Marc and Antoine Kreydenweiss, who also produce a fittingly interesting, top quality orange wine."

In 1999, Marc decided to expand his operations beyond Alsace to acquire a property in Rhone's Costieres de Nimes, where he and Antoine craft a range of biodynamic wines. See p44 for more.

Jean Biecher et Fils

The Biecher family have been making wine in Alsace since 1776. Their cellar in the village of Saint Hippolyte has been in near constant use since then and is ideally located right in the heart of Alsace. The family believe in responsible winemaking from vineyard to cellar, and the most efficient way they are able to reduce their environmental impact is through responsible farming of their grapes. Having worked with their farmers to convert their vineyards to organic practices, Jean Biecher is now the largest organic wine producer in Alsace.

The Biecher & Schaal Riesling Grand Cru Sommerberg won a gold medal at the 2017 SWA awards.

Loire Valley France

NEW | Alphonse Mellot

The Mellot family started making wine over 500 years ago, and the rich family history includes a stint as wine advisers to none other than Louis XIV. In 1970, 18th generation Alphonse Mellot took control of the estate and started focusing on quality rather than quantity. Working with his son, 19th generation Alphonse Junior, the Mellots soil of Buzancais. control 47ha of vineyards that stretch across the upper Loire Valley. Farmed organically and biodynamically, grapes are harvested by hand in small trays, in order to transport the any way.

They own a lot of individual vineyard plots, with La Moussiere the most remarkable. La Moussiere is located in the upper Sancerre, close to the town of Sancerre, and has been classified as a unique category among the region's wines. A historic and beautiful site, this 30ha single vineyard is south facing, with rolling slopes and deep, limestone-rich kimmeridgian soil that gives way to the marls of Saint Doulchard and the chalky

While Sancerre remains predominantly white, Mellot has a near-equal split between white and red production. The terroir of their fruit to the press without it being damaged in vineyards is similar to the great Burgundian appellations, and they produce two stunning Pinots. They also make a fantastic 100% Pinot Noir rosé from the La Moussiere vineyard – an elegant and fresh wine with aromas of red berries and spicy hints. See p28.

"Alphonse Mellot was, and is, one of the beacons of quality in the region, both for Sauvignon Blanc and Pinot Noir. They own a lot of individual vineyard plots and the wines are named after these vineyards. The most remarkable is the La Moussiere vineyard, which produces stand-out Sauvignon and Pinot."

Domaine Fouassier

Established in 1749 in the heart of Sancerre, Domaine Fouassier is one of the oldest wine growing families in the Loire. Each generation has learned the ropes from the previous, but they have always been given the freedom to put their own stamp on the wines. 10th generation and current winemakers Benoit and Paul have brought Domaine Fouassier into a new era of organic and biodynamic viticulture. They believe that by looking after the vineyards they can continue to pass them on from generation to generation in the best possible condition.

Today the estate comprises nearly 56ha planted across varying elevations and a variety of complex soils, contributing to the minerality found in their white wines.

Burgundy France

Domaine Roux

Domaine Roux was founded in 1885 with a mere 1ha in the village of Saint-Aubin in the heart of Burgundy. Under the leadership of the third and fourth generation, Marcel Roux and his sons, Christian, Régis and Emmanuel, the family's vineyard holdings have expanded to include more than 70ha throughout the Cote d'Or, most extensively in Cote de Beaune.

Today, Domaine Roux is one of the top 10 largest landholders in the region and the number one in Saint-Aubin. Family owned and operated, the current team in charge of production includes brothers Matthieu, who makes the wine, and Sebastien, who manages the business.

The vines are planted on eastern and southern facing slopes, benefiting from premium exposures on a variety of soils. All grapes are harvested by hand at the right time to produce elegant and expressive wines.

With incredible attention to detail, Domaine Roux combines valuable traditions with the most advanced technology to produce a vast portfolio of terroir-driven expressions of Chardonnay and Pinot Noir. See p33.

Domaine Jean Defaix

Daniel Dampt is one of Chablis' most celebrated producers, making wines both under his own name and that of Jean Defaix, his father in law. The domaine covers 30ha of vines (16 in AOC Chablis and 14 in 1er Cru vineyards) split across five sites.

Working with his two sons, Vincent and Sebastien, who have worked in New Zealand and Australia, they produce clean, ultra-pure whites with bright steely acidity and not so much as a hint of oak. They craft wines that are true to the history of the region and reflect the rich heritage of the Defaix name.

Domaine Latour Ciraud

Jean-Pierre Latour is your archetypal small Burgundian grower. A visit to the winery involves little more than popping under the garage to the cuverie and barrel cellar, and squeezing in among the tanks to find a perch for your glass. The quantities here are tiny, with Jean-Pierre's vines split among over 13 vineyards in Meursault, Puligny, Pommard and Volnay.

Both the Latours and the Girauds have a long family history in Burgundy and everything about the domaine speaks of unpretentious, authentic winemaking. The house style is classic Meursault: ripe and full but finely balanced with that peculiarly French word, nervosité.

Rijckaert

Rijckaert was founded in 1998 by Jean Rijckaert, a passionate Belgian wine producer. In addition to 4ha in South Burgundy, Rijckaert cultivates 6ha of vineyards in the Jura, where Jean fell in love with the unique and outstanding terroirs.

Since 2013, Jean has gradually been passing on the torch of his passion to Florent Rouve, sharing the 'savoir-faire' that has shaped the incredible reputation of his wines: restricted yields, manual harvesting, slow and moderate pressings, indigenous flora, long wine ageing, and a few other precious secrets...

Beaujolais France

Domaine Yohan Lardy

At 30 years old, Yohan Lardy is one of a new generation of terroir-focused producers in Beaujolais. After finishing his oenological studies in Beaune, Yohan spent time working for a biodynamic producer in Chile, before returning to his native Beaujolais. He now owns about 8ha of vines split between Fleurie, Moulin a Vent, Chenas and Beaujolais-Villages.

Yohan's experience in Chile encouraged him to adopt a very natural approach to tending his vines. "I already had some pretty set ideas about looking after the vines in a more natural way," he says, "and the wines too. For me it's really something that comes from the heart, it's something I'm passionate about. It

Yohan carries out the back-breaking work of ploughing and harvesting his vineyards by hand, using only natural fertilisers and no sulphites. In the cellar he follows the classic Beaujolais method of carbonic maceration, using whole bunches, ambient yeasts and

His wines are celebrated for a very aromatic, fruit-forward profile, with a complex, terroirdriven character and enjoyably soft tannins. The wines are aged for at least 10 months in Burgundy barrels to get the best balance

Also take a look at Lucien Lardy, Yohan's father, making wine from his 35 acres in Fleurie, Moulin a Vent, Morgon and Beaujolais-Villages. Lucien is one of the founding members of 'Terroirs Originels', a collective of independent winemakers from Beaujolais and the Maconnais. He says. "I vinify each of my plots separately in order to manage the expression of all my land. This enables me to create complex and generous wines that display the characteristics of its terroir."

Marcel Lapierre

Marcel Lapierre was a leading light in France's natural wine movement until his untimely death in 2010. A hero to many winemakers, he was one of the first to embrace biodynamics, wild yeast, and minimal use of sulphur.

His son, Mathieu, and daughter, Camille, hold the same values, producing fantastic wine as naturally as possible while ensuring the bottles reach the consumer in perfect condition.

The domaine's Morgon is widely regarded as one of the finest in Beaujolais and very few wines in our range can match it for sheer drinking pleasure.

Jura & Savoie France

NEW | Jean Perrier et Fils

Savoie may be one of France's smaller and lesser-known regions, but it is big on personality, with the region's producers crafting fresh and elegant wines from indigenous grapes.

Bibendum buyer for France, Alastair Pyatt, says, "Savoie is a very small region in the east of France, close to the Swiss border. Being near many ski resorts, these wines have always been widely consumed locally, with not much of it being exported. Producing lighter wines and offering great value for money, the wines of Savoie are well worth exploring.

"Jean Perrier is one of the leading producers in Savoie and our first addition from this Alpine region. This is a small, family-owned producer growing mostly indigenous grapes in various crus throughout the region."

With a long family history in the region, the Perriers started growing grapes and bought a cellar in 1853. Passing down through various generations of the Perrier family, the big change came in 1947, when Jean Victor Perrier was the first in Savoie to bottle his own wine. Growing and expanding both their land and winemaking facilities throughout the years, their vineyards now cover 62ha across 200 parcels. Today, Jean Perrier et Fils south-eastern exposure. is operated by brothers Philippe, Christophe and Gilles, who took over in the 1980s from their father and president of the company,

The Perrier brothers operate their vineyards organically, even though they aren't certified. Harvesting takes place by hand and grapes are destemmed and sorted, before being gently pressed using a pneumatic press.

With a focus on whites, most of the grapes are indigenous – including Jacquere, Abymes, Apremont and Chignin – and grown on clay-limestone soils. For the red wines, Perrier grows Gamay, Chautagne, Jongieux, Mondeuse and Arbin, with the vines planted on granite and clay-limestone soils, on a

Jura

At half the size of Chablis, Jura may well be France's smallest wine region, but it's definitely one to watch. Nestled between Burgundy and Switzerland, the region has a particularly-small production and is still largely unknown, with only 3% of UK wine drinkers having tried a glass. Consequently, there are a lot of common misconceptions around the styles of wine, such as that it is all oxidised and all about rare varieties. In fact, the region produces a variety of styles from a combination of international and indigenous grapes.

Bordeaux France

Chateau La Lagune

The history of La Lagune dates back to the 17th century, when the first vines were planted. But its stellar reputation was developed in the 19th century. Left in disarray around the time of the First World War, it wasn't until 1958 that an agricultural engineer, Georges Brunet, redeveloped the site. Further major improvements took place under the current ownership of the Frey family, in particular winemaker Caroline Frey, who has changed the wine styles with a reduction of new oak and focus on quality fruit.

Since 1999, the quality at La Lagune has improved in leaps and bounds. The Frey family (which also owns Paul Jaboulet Aine in the Rhone) has a habit of changing the fortunes of floundering wineries winery and vineyard.

Caroline has worked for many years to put in place a viticultural process that respects the environment, based on the ideals of organic and biodynamic agriculture. This natural approach, which is adapted for every single parcel, plays a fundamental role in the quality of the wines.

NEW | Chateau d'Arche

Steeped in centuries of history, Chateau d'Arche was established in 1580 by Henry d'Arche, dean of the city of Bordeaux. At the time, his wines were already some of the most famous Sauternes. During the 1789 Revolution, the chateau was taken over by the state and it was another two centuries before the estate was reunified. Nowadays, the chateau covers 40ha with winemaker Jerome Cosson producing Grand Cru Classé Sauternes.

Overlooking the village of Sauternes and offering a magnificent panorama, Chateau d'Arche is built on the summit of hills that overlook its prestigious neighbours, notably Yquem and Guiraud. It is in an exceptional location, benefitting from maximum sunshine and varied soils that allows for the development of wines with very specific taste qualities.

Chateau Cardegan

Chateau Gardegan lies on the highest part of the Bordeaux region and has a rich history of winegrowing that dates back to the Roman era. The domaine has recently taken on building works to renovate their cellars, creating a state-of-the-art winemaking facility. They are committed to a more sustainable winemaking process – having restructured their vineyards and viticultural methods to work towards an organic farming certification.

Paul Jaboulet Aine

In 1834, when Antoine Jaboulet set up his business in Tain l'Hermitage with the aim of producing great wines, he saw his future profession as cultivating the vineyards and maintaining the quality of the land. It was with this mindset that he quickly acquired his first vineyards on the Hermitage slopes and the Crozes Hermitage plains.

In 2006, the Freys (owners of Chateau La Lagune in Bordeaux) took over Paul Jaboulet an icon of this part of the Rhone Valley and Aine, where winemaker Caroline now works with her teams in a single-minded quest for perfection; combining cutting-edge winemaking with the scrupulous care given to vines grown in exceptional terroirs. They have since also acquired vineyards in the

NEW | Cave Dumazet

Cave Dumazet is a very small boutique estate located in the Northern Rhone. The family estate was founded in 1870 but has been run by current winemaker Pierre Dumazet since 1978. The domaine has 4.5ha spread over St Joseph, Cornas, Cote Rotie and the Cote du Rhone AOC in the Northern part of the Rhone Valley.

The estate is managed in a traditional way from the vineyard to the cellar. All the vines are planted on very steep terraces, which means there is no access for machines – therefore, all operations in the vineyard are carried out manually and absolutely no chemicals are used.

Alain Jaume

Established in the northern part of Chateauneuf du Pape, the Jaume family has been dedicated to the art of wine growing since 1826. The family still runs the company today – the eponymous Alain Jaume is still very much involved in the business, but his two sons Christophe (winemaking) and Sebastian (sales and marketing) are now in day to day command.

The cellars are located in Orange, just up the road from Chateauneuf du Pape. All the family's wines are impressive, balancing sweet fruit with classic southern Rhone warmth and spice. In the words of Robert Parker: "The wines are made in a polished, civilized, modern style, but they do not lack Provencal typicity."

Chateau Saint Cosme

Chateau Saint Cosme is without doubt one of the very best producers in France, let alone the Southern Rhone. The winery dates back to 1490 and they own some of the oldest vines in the area. Winemaker Louis Barruol's family have owned the estate for generations, but it is only under his guidance that it is starting to fulfil its potential.

Louis is an evangelist for the terroir of Gigondas and produces several single-vineyard wines to demonstrate its variety. All the wines are made using the same combination of technical precision and artistry.

Domaine Lafage

Domaine Lafage has been growing grapes in Roussillon for six generations, but it was Jean-Marc Lafage who had the ambition to stop selling the grapes to the local co-op and create a domaine. He and his oenologist wife, Eliane, founded the domaine in 1996 and still run it today – they combine their international experience with traditional methods, working with a qualified and motivated team.

After years of researching every corner of Roussillon, Jean-Marc and Eliane selected plots in truly exceptional locations. These vineyards are spread across the region like a mosaic, with parcels in the Agly Valley, Aspres, Maury and Perpignan.

The domaine uses both modern and traditional viticulture methods, while they also stick to a strict environmental policy, aiming to make the wines in a sustainable way. Jean-Marc and Eliane craft a range of high quality wines showing the typicity of the South of France. With an array of medals in both domestic and international competitions, Domaine Lafage has become one of the best producers in the Roussillon.

Plaimont

In 1979 the three wine cooperatives of Plaisance, Aignan and Saint-Mont in the Gers joined forces – and initials – to set up a united group of cooperatives and vineyards under the name Plaimont Producteurs. Today, the group manages 5,000ha of vines, with the average property covering 6 to 7ha.

Plaimont are dedicated to preserving the flavour and identity of the region, not only by using local varietals in their wines, but also by making an effort to unearth forgotten grapes. In 2002, they created the Conservatoire Ampelographique - an experimental conservatory vineyard, the largest of its kind in France. In this vineyard, 37 different vitis vinifera varieties are grown and micro-vinified every year, to see which grapes have a potential future.

Chateau Maris

There's sustainable winemaking and then there's Chateau Maris. Purchased by British ex-pat Robert (Bertie) Eden in 1997, the 50ha domaine in Minervois' La Liviniere (cru classe) is 100% organic and biodynamic – but it doesn't stop there. Bertie is an advocate of the importance of taking steps to reduce the impact on the environment in the wine industry and their efforts range from using only natural pesticides and fertilisers, to building a gravity-fed winery from hemp bricks to absorb excess CO₂ and naturally regulate the temperature.

Chateau Maris produce exciting, terroir-driven wines, including a white, rosé and various reds from grapes like Grenache Gris, Carignan, Syrah and Grenache Noir.

NEW | Ermitage Pic St Loup

On the lands of l'Ermitage – a family property which in the 13th Century already supplied Chateau de Montferrand and the bishops of Maguelone – brothers Jean-Marc, Pierre and Xavier Ravaille established Ermitage Pic St Loup. From this region that was historically known for sheep, olive trees and vines, they created a jewel in the crown of the Pic St Loup appellation.

At Ermitage Pic St Loup, the wines' balance results from a subtle marriage of noble grape varieties and different types of terrain: limestone clay, red earth, gravel and pebbles. The estate has been working naturally, in a biodynamic manner, for several years but is now working towards gaining organic certification.

Mas des Capitelles

Located in the heart of Faugeres in Languedoc-Roussillon, Mas des Capitelles is a small-scale, family-run winery now in its 10th generation. The Lauge family run the property and were involved in the creation of Faugeres' only cooperative, as well as the Faugeres AOC.

The winery is certified organic and operates biodynamically, focusing mainly on southern French varieties such as Carignan, Mourvedre, Grenache, Syrah and Cinsault. Vines are cultivated using the traditional Gobelet training method, the harvest is sorted on the vine, and grapes picked by hand. For them, it's all about attention to detail – organic, biodynamic, low sulphur and low yields all combine to make an artisanal product that offers incredible value for money.

NEW | Chateau La Coste

Chateau La Coste strives to preserve the terroir of their Provencal vineyards – adhering to biodynamic principles in order to protect the land's fertility and to safeguard the essence of the soil. In 2009, their wines were given the French organic label 'AB' in recognition of their commitment to sustainable winemaking and respecting the land.

Alongside this natural approach to winemaking, Chateau La Coste takes a modern approach in the winery. With a state-ofthe-art cuverie built in 2008 by French architect Jean Nouvel, the chateau is bringing new life to old traditions. The latest technology ensures that the best possible expression of the terroir is present in their wines.

La Roncaia

In the small region of Fruili in north eastern Italy lies La Roncaia, an estate run by the Fantinel family since 1998. The region is very close to the borders of Veneto, Slovenia and Austria, and is renowned for its abundance of indigenous varietals that produce amazingly light and aromatic white wine.

La Roncaia is still familyoperated, with third generation Marco Fantinel now at the helm. Both Marco and winemaker Gabriele Tami prioritise respecting the terroir and native grapes of the region, honouring the varietals that Friuli is famed for. Their plantings include very old vineyards with indigenous grapes including Refosco, Friulano and Ribolla Gialla.

NEW | La Dama

Located in the Valpolicella Classico sub-region of Veneto, La Dama's vineyards stretch across the areas of Negrar and Sant'Ambrogio di Valpolicella. Owned and operated by Gabriele Dalcanale and his wife, 'la dama' (the lady) Miriam, their vine growing and winemaking approach is about doing things as naturally as possible. From the 2015 vintage onwards, all the La Dama wines will be certified organic.

Gabriele explains their vine growing and winemaking approach: "The selection of the right grapes for the drying and production of our Amarone and Recioto is so important to achieve the excellence we strive for. Everything has to be done in the most virtuous way, using only natural products, from the vineyard to the cellar."

Made from native grapes, the wines offer a true expression of the land. Grapes are hand picked, with each variety bringing something different to the wines.

Suavia

Located in Fitta, Suavia is owned and run by the three Tessari sisters, who have taken over from their parents. With plenty of passion and hard work, Meri, Valentina and Alessandra have taken the winery to the next level, where it can rightly be regarded as one of the region's very best.

The wines produced at Suavia are aromatic, lively and fresh with a fabulous concentration of flavour. Only the two native varieties of Soave are grown in their vineyards: Garganega and Trebbiano di Soave. Trebbiano di Soave is an ancient varietal grown on the local hillside basalt soils. Small amounts of Trebbiano may typically be included with Garganega to produce Soave Classico, but it's rare to find a pure expression of this varietal. Suavia's Massifitti is an exception – they are one of a few to produce a 100% Trebbiano di Soave.

The Suavia Soave Classico Monte Carbonare won a gold medal at the 2017 SWA awards.

Vietti

The Vietti family has been producing wine for four generations in Castiglione Falletto, at the heart of the Barolo area. Carlo Vietti founded the winery in the 1800s and his son Mario and the next generations carried on his legacy, focusing on improving the production.

Always looking to grow and innovate, the family was one of the first in Barolo to export wine and to release single-vineyard products that showcase the individual terroirs of the region. Today, the winery is in the hands of Luca Currado Vietti and is considered to be one of the very best Barolo producers. Their wines are highly sought-after, with beautifully designed labels.

Poderi dal Nespoli

Poderi dal Nespoli is located in the southern part of Emilia-Romagna, where the Tuscan Apennines connect to the Adriatic Coast. A familyrun estate now in its fourth generation, the Ravaioli family established the winery in 1929, and today they run the estate with the same passion and love for the land.

This single estate winery successfully blends classic Italian grape varieties Sangiovese and Trebbiano, with international varieties Cabernet Sauvignon and Chardonnay. Combining traditional winemaking techniques with innovation and state-of-the-art equipment in the winery, the wines of Poderi dal Nespoli are great examples of the rich, food-friendly wines of this classic region.

Castellare di Castellina

In the 1970s, four estates came together to form Castellare di Castellina: Castellare, Caselle, San Niccolo and Le Case. Together they cover a total of 80ha – including 12 planted by olive groves. The vineyards occupy 33ha on the hillsides of a natural southeast-facing amphitheater, at an average height of 370 meters above sea level. This excellent exposure to the sun, good water drainage and a mixed soil containing limestone marl, galestro and a little clay, produce well-structured, intense red and white wines, suitable for long bottle ageing.

They are traditional Tuscan producers with a very modern approach, and staunch patrons of Sangioveto (Sangiovese), unlike many other Chianti wineries who started adding French varieties like Merlot and Cabernet Sauvignon during the era of Super Tuscans. They created the first experimental vineyard in Chianti, together with the University of Milan and Florence, implementing the first scientific selection of Sangioveto clones.

Rocca di Frassinello

A collaboration between the people behind iconic Tuscan winery Castellare di Castellina and leading French wine brand Domaines Barons de Rothschild Lafite, Rocca di Frassinello was born out of a desire to bring together Castellare's experience in cultivating Sangiovese with Lafite's long standing knowledge of classical French varieties like Cabernet, Merlot and Syrah.

Situated between Gavorrano and Ribolla in the Grosseto province in Maremma, the soils have similar characteristics to those of Chianti and Montalcino, but with slightly higher temperatures, so are able to reach maturation earlier compared to those vineyards further north.

The Rocca di Frassinello won a gold medal at the 2017 SWA awards.

Bisceglia

Located in the Lavello area of southern Italy, Bisceglia have 30ha of vineyards planted on the region's famous dark volcanic soils. The Mediterranean climate of the area, with mild winters and hot summers, helps with grape colour and polyphenolic complexity.

The focus for Bisceglia is local grapes – such as Falanghina, Fiano and Aglianico – all of which pack a hefty punch of fruit. With a state-of-the-art cellar, designed by architects Hikaru Mori and Domenico Santomauro, winemaker Sergio Paternoster wants for nothing in his quest to create world class wines.

In the 'heel of Italy's boot', in the Salento region of Puglia, lies Masseria Borgo dei Trulli. The winery takes its name from the plural of 'Trullo', traditional Puglian dry stone huts that were mainly used as field shelters or storehouses by Saracen populations hundreds of years ago. Remains of these ancient shelters are still present today.

Borgo dei Trulli covers a total of 45ha of land, including 25ha of vineyards. Home to dark, thickskinned black grape varieties, the focus here is on indigenous grapes and interesting production methods. There are 20ha of Primitivo, including a 10ha 'Saracena' vineyard, which is trained in the old Alberello system (free-growing bush tree). This vineyard is over 55 years old and yields are limited to less than 1kg of grapes per vine.

One of the largest – and oldest - producers in the region, Tornatore owns 46ha of vineyards on the north side of active volcano Mount Etna, 1,000m above sea level. Established in 1865, the estate is still run by the same family.

The focus at Tornatore is on native grape varieties: Nerello Mascalese, Nerello Cappuccio, Carricante and Catarratto. While the varietals used are traditional, their winemaking style is more modern in approach, with lower alcohol and more emphasis on fruit. These wines have quickly become some of our favourites and offer incredible complexity and intrigue at a very affordable price.

Caruso & Minini

The Caruso & Minini Terre di Giumara Frappato Nerello Mascalese won a gold medal, as well as Food Match and By the Glass award at the 2017 SWA awards.

Bodegas Vivanco

businessman who made his fortune in the wine trade and started producing wines way back in 1915. Starting out as a wine merchant, he became a substantial vineyard owner bodegas. The family now own seven bodegas interests in Navarra.

In 1985 Pedro bought the site of the current winery, in the heart of Rioja Alta. In 1990 he started the ambitious project that would become the driving force for himself and sons Rafael and Santiago: Bodegas Vivanco.

Today, four generations later, Vivanco is one of Rioja's leading producers, with winemaker

Mazuelo and Garnacha.

But Vivanco is far more than a family wine business, as anyone who has visited can

Rafael Vivanco Saenz at the helm. Rafael crafts a modern style of Rioja, focussing on bright, juicy fruit flavours. The wines are where in-depth knowledge of the sites packed full of rustic charm and fresh fruit

The winery is located in the Briones region, an enclave in the Rioja Alta at the foothills of the Cantabrian Mountain Range, with its made from Tempranillo, alongside Graciano, testify. The family's passion also lies in disseminating the culture of wine, with their very own on-site Museum of Wine Culture. The museum explores the history of wine and winemaking in permanent and temporary corkscrew collection. Step outside and you find yourself in the Garden of Bacchus – a celebration of over 220 grape varieties from across the globe. See p68.

Bodegas Castro Martin

Bodegas Castro Martin stands proudly as a family business still managed on a day-to-day basis by the descendants of its original founder, Domingo Martin. The Martin family had been making wine for generations, albeit on a comparatively small scale, until 1981 when Domingo decided to build a larger, more high-tech facility in the shape of the current bodega. It was the first in the region to be equipped with stainless steel tanks and produced its first vintage some six years before the denomination of Rias Baixas was even created.

Today the business is managed by Domingo's daughter, Angela, and her husband Andrew McCarthy. Angela is also the winemaker and a member of the official tasting panel that controls the quality of all wines produced within the DO Rias Baixas.

The Castro Martin A2O Albarino won a gold medal at the 2017 SWA awards.

Bodegas Bhilar

Bodegas Bhilar is a small, boutique winery situated in Elvillar, Rioja Alavesa. Run by husband and wife team, David Sampedro and Melanie Hickman, their aim is to create terroirdriven wines with soul, primarily from native grapes.

Respecting the environment is incredibly important to Bhilar. Winemaker and viticulturist David started to employ biodynamic practices back in 1999, changing how he cares for his vineyards completely. In 2014, they replaced tractors in the vineyards with horses. This sustainable approach also continues into their 'off-the-grid' winery – built in 2016, it uses solar power and is built partially subterranean to help control the temperature.

Cuatro Rayas

ocated in the heart of Rueda, uatro Rayas are one of the ngest serving producers Rueda, with a resulting rerage vineyard age to make hers envious. Since their tablishment in 1935, they've een pioneers in adopting ew trends and innovations in viticulture and winemaking. Their ideology is to combine both tradition and technology to produce the best possible white wine.

The bodega has over 2,150ha of vineyards, most of which focus on Verdejo but there are also plantings of Sauvignon Blanc, Viura, Palomino Fino and Tempranillo. Among these vineyards, they have a small portion of century-old, prephylloxera bush vines.

Bodegas Protos

Taking its name from the Greek word for 'first', Bodegas Protos is the oldest wine company in Spain's Ribera del Duero. The winery was founded in 1927 by a group of local winegrowers, who decided to combine their efforts to get the best out of the land. This venture paid off, as they are now internationally recognised for their wines.

Winemaker Marilena Bonilla has been key in developing viticultural techniques at the winery and their guiding philosophy is 'quality above all'. They have 1,400ha of Tempranillo and Verdejo, planted mostly on south-facing hillsides for optimal sun exposure. These vineyards are watched over by technicians and experts throughout the growing process to ensure the highest quality.

NEW | Palacio Quemado

Palacio Quemado, a unique 'pago' located in Alange, Extremadura, is a true reflection of the viticulture of the Extremadura Alentejana. Founded in 1999 by the Alvear family, Palacio Quemado was created out of a desire to make quality red wines that express the culture of the region. Together with the Envinate winemaking team, the Alvear family make single-estate wines, reflecting their vineyard with its different soils and orientations, planted to indigenous varieties grown and vinified in a sustainable manner and with minimal intervention. Since 2015, the winery has been part of the prestigious association Grandes Pagos de Espana.

La Ina

In 1919 a group of hare hunters in Jerez tasted their first sherry on the spot of an 8th Century Moorish battle. The battle was remembered as the battle of 'La Ina' after the war cry of the Moorish: "A'Hina". This historic event also gave its name to the delicious bone-dry sherry: Fino La Ina.

Today over 4,500 'botas' of sherry are ageing in La Ina's solera system and their Fino is renowned for its intensity and aromatic flavours. Emilio Lustau acquired La Ina in 2008 and has maintained the 'botas' according to traditional sherry ageing methods in order to preserve its rich traditions. This involves ageing it in American oak for five years in the original Criaderas in Jerez de la Frontera. Lustau has quickly become one of the most prestigious sherry houses, producing wine in all three areas of the 'sherry triangle'.

NEW | La Guita

La Guita is the leading Manzanilla sherry brand in Spain, but its beginnings were much more humble. The bodega was founded by Domingo Perez Marin in 1852 in a 16th century hospital building in Sanlucar de Barrameda.

It is the only Manzanilla produced exclusively from Pago ('plot') Miraflores. One of the most prestigious vineyards of the area, Miraflores is located around the town of Sanlucar where the Albariza soil provides great mineral character. The saline breeze from the Atlantic Ocean is key in the ageing of this unique wine, blowing directly through the Bodega due to its high location. The string ('guita' in Spanish) that adorns each La Guita bottle is an allusion to its founder, whose famous words when visited by clients were: "Show me the money", with 'Guita' also a colloquial term for money in Spanish.

Quinta do Vallado

Established in 1716, Quinta do Vallado is one of the oldest and most famous estates in the Douro Valley. Once the property of legendary and Touriga Franca. At Quinta do Orgal, Dona Antónia Adelaide Ferreira, it's still in the possession of her descendants Francisco Nacional, Touriga Franca and Sousao. and João Ferreira.

For almost 200 years, Quinta do Vallado produced only port wines, shipped by the Ferreira Port House (owned by the Ferreira family until late 80s), but are now also a formidable producer of dry white, rosé and red wine.

They own 70ha of vineyards in the Lower Corgo and another 30ha of organic vineyards from leading press and experts. They at Quinta do Orgal in Douro Superior. The vines in the Lower Corgo are planted on south and west facing slopes; the schistslate soil is excellent for optimum ripening of the grapes, taking advantage of the Mediterranean climate. There are more than 40 varieties planted, with a focus on Tinta Amarela, Tinta Roriz, Tinta Barroca the vineyards are mostly planted to Touriga

Hand picked and gently handled, grapes used for port wine production are then foot trodden in granite lagares, as well as a small percentage of the grapes used for dry wine.

Quinta do Vallado have been producing top quality, single-estate ports and dry wines under their own brand since the early 90s, and have achieved worldwide recognition also have three small wine hotels among their vineyards, making them one of the unmissable places to visit in the Douro Valley.

England

Ridgeview

English sparkling wine continues to skyrocket, with sales growing at double-digit figures. There are some fantastic producers right on our doorstep, but few can compare to Ridgeview, a world-class sparkling wine producer in England's South Downs.

In just 20 years, Ridgeview's wines have become a beacon in the English wine industry and they've been awarded over 250 medals and 27 trophies in both international and national competitions.

Now run by winemaker Simon Roberts and his sister Tamara (Ridgeview's CEO), their journey started in 1995 when their parents, Mike and Chris Roberts, found a piece of land in the South Downs and planted Chardonnay, Pinot Noir and Pinot Meunier vines.

A stone (and a half's) throw from Brighton, Ridgeview's vineyards benefit from the best of British terroir: clay-loam top soil with a deep limestone ridge to bring crispness and freshness to the wines. Their philosophy is simple: minimal intervention in order to allow the fruit to speak for itself.

"Ridgeview, a second generation family company, have been at the forefront of the revolution in English sparkling production. To be working with world-class sparkling wines from so close to our doorstep is incredibly exciting, and testament to what English sparkling wine can achieve," says Jamie Avenell, Bibendum buyer for England.

Markus Molitor

Since Phylloxera wreaked havoc across the wine producing regions, it is quite unusual to see ungrafted vines in Europe. Ungrafted vines of around 100 years old are rarer still. Working with veritable living antiques like this would be daunting for most winemakers – but not for Markus Molitor. Taking over the reins of the family company in 1984, he has grown the Mosel-based estate from 4ha to 40. Now one of the largest family owned vineyards in the region, every wine is still produced organically, without fining or industrial yeasts. This is a taste of true German terroir.

Founded in 1986, Weingut Glatzer is located in Carnuntum, east of Vienna and south of the river Danube. The region is characterised by an area of geological plates and hills, with the loess-covered plates providing fertile farmland while the gravelly hills are covered with woods and vines. Walter Glatzer's vineyards cover 54ha, with the majority planted with red and white grapes typical of the region, like Zweigelt, St. Laurent, Gruner Veltliner and Blaufrankisch.

At Glatzer they believe that there's little mystery and even less romanticism to winemaking. They make use of the possibilities that winemaking technology offers – modern equipment and production facilities allow them to make wines following traditional methods, in a clean and gentle way. In the pursuit of maximising the expression of the land and the varietal character, they are in the process of converting to organic farming.

Tibor Gal Senior was one of Hungary's best known winemakers abroad – working for prestigious Italian producers such as Ornellaia, Aia Vecchia and La Roncaia. In 1993 he started his own project, Gal Tibor. He chose the very best locations for his vineyards, planting 40ha of grapes in the Eger region over a period of five years.

The winery grew steadily over the next few years, and by 2002 they had produced over 300,000 bottles of wine. Following Tibor Gal's grapes are hand-harvested, no chemicals are death in 2005, his family took over the estate used in the vinevards and there is minimal in his stead. The same year of his death, he was nominated for the Wine Oscar Award in is to let the vineyards speak for itself in every Germany – the most prestigious award for winemakers in the world.

In 2011, Tibor Gal Junior took over as chief winemaker and manager of the winery, continuing and evolving the family philosophy and passion for creating regional wines of exceptional quality. His aim is to produce terroir-focused wines, continuing his father's legacy while utilising modern technology and contemporary methods.

Royal Tokaji Company

Co-founded in 1990 by wine writer Hugh Johnson, Royal Tokaji has quickly become one of the most important wineries in Tokaj. From the outset, they focused on producing singlevineyard wines, made from the first growth vineyards of Mezes Maly, Nyulaszo, St Tamas and Betsek. Rich, complex and sumptuous, Hugh famously described Tokaj as "a wine that would make angels sing out loud in praise".

Today, the winery's focus is on the region's dry styles as much as sweet, using indigenous variety Furmint to create these finelybalanced wines. Just like their sweet counterparts, the dry wines have a crisp acidity, complexity and a long finish.

The Royal Tokaji Blue Label 5 Puttonyos Aszu 2013 won a gold medal at the IWC 2017 awards.

Puklavec Family Wines

When you think of top wine-producing countries in Europe, Slovenia doesn't immediately jump to mind, despite the country's long history of winemaking. Slovenia shares borders with Italy and Austria and its fantastic white wines have much in common with its neighbours: freshness, elegance and purity of fruit. A drive towards quality in Slovenia over the last few decades has resulted in some exceptional wines, available at a fraction of the cost of their better-known neighbours.

The Puklavec family's love for wine can be traced back to 1934. Martin Puklavec had a vision: to make the finest wines. This philosophy continues to resonate through the family's winemaking today.

The Puklavec family owned the estate before the advent of socialism, when ownership transferred to the state. Following the collapse of the iron curtain, the family grabbed the opportunity to buy back the vineyards and start all over again, installing local vigneron, Mitja Herga, to make the wines.

Today the winery is run by Vladimir Puklavec and his two daughters, Tatjana and Kristina, alongside other winegrowers. Their Family Estate Selection range is the perfect introduction to Slovenian wine, offering lots of fruit and local character at a very affordable price.

The wines are produced in the heart of Ljutomer-Ormoz in the Podravje region, in North-Eastern Slovenia. This area provides the perfect microclimate for grape growing. The result? Elegant and beautifully balanced wines, crafted with an uncompromising passion and attention to detail.

Veralda

Although better known as a holiday destination than wine producer, Croatia's wines are well worth exploring. Istria is the most northerly, and arguably one of the top regions of Coastal Croatia, famous for its very own clone of Malvasia, known as Malvazija Istarska. Close to the border of Italy, Istria experiences a Mediterranean climate – with long, hot, dry summers and mild, short, wet winters – that's ideal for grape growing.

Founded in 1998 by Nives Visintin, Veralda's first vintage was produced in 2002. Owned by the Visintin family of Verteneglio, Veralda is one of the largest wineries in Istria, with 33ha of vineyards, as well as 5ha of olive orchards. The focus in Istria is on fruity, dry white wines from a wide range of grape varieties, but most notably Malvazija.

Kir-Yianni

What Yiannis Boutaris started in 1997 as a fresh expression of Greek wine is now one of mountainous regions of Naoussa and the most progressive wineries in the country. Amyndeon in Northwestern Greece. The Yiannis, the mayor of Thessaloniki, is part of Greece's oldest winemaking dynasty and spearheaded a new wave of thinking about Greek wine. His focus? Unlocking the potential of the little-known local grape variety, Xinomavro.

There are now research and development programmes dedicated to exploring the depths of Xinomavro, giving the varietal the kind of focus Catena have done with Malbec. And it's working. Examples bottled by Kir-Yianni have been compared to Nebbiolo. Today the day-to-day running of the winery is led by Yiannis' son, Stellios. His radical vineyard and winery have carried on his father's proud legacy.

Kir-Yianni has two wineries based in the estate (Ktima) in Naoussa is located at the highest point of the viticultural region. The 58ha Ktima spearheaded the revival of the Naoussa appellation in the 1970s. The vineyard and winery of Amyndeon are located on the shores of lake Vegoritis, in the shadow of the mountains of Kaimakcalan and Vitsi. Amyndeon has evolved into one of the most promising Greek winemaking regions. It has a characteristic microclimate and soil due to the high altitude of the area and the four lakes surrounding it, perfect for the production of top-quality wine.

White and Ramnista both won a gold medal at the 2017 SWA awards.

Doluca

Doluca was one of the first Turkish wine producers - this family-owned winery was founded in 1926, the same year the Turkish Republic was formed. Owned and managed by the Kutman family over three generations, they focus on indigenous varieties while investing in modern technology. Their award-winning Kav range of wines focus on three indigenous varieties – Narince, Bogazkere and Okuzgozu.

The name Doluca comes from the highest point of the Murefte region of Turkey, where Doluca was founded, and they own and manage vineyards in different areas of Turkey. Nihat Ahmet Kutman, the founder of Doluca, was Turkey's first oenologist having trained in Germany. Third generation Sibel Kutman Oral runs the marketing activities for Doluca today, while head winemaker Aysun Pirdel is assisted by Doluca family member Luca Cerruti.

Canada

Stratus Vineyards

Stratus vineyards, opened in 2005, has quickly become one of the benchmarks for quality within the flourishing Canadian wine industry.

The winery is located in the charming and historic town of Niagara-on-the-Lake, within the Niagara Peninsula wine country. The vineyards benefit from a unique microclimate that ranks among the warmest in Niagara, providing perfect conditions for growing the diverse range of grape varieties that are used in their signature cuvees.

Committed to sustainability, Stratus has an LEED-certified facility that produces the best possible wine with the smallest possible environmental impact. They have made the choice of getting rid of pumps, and instead the wine is transported completely through gravity flow, minimising their carbon footprint and maximizing quality.

This dedication to sustainability continues in the vineyards, where they allow the environment's natural ecosystem to take hold. Indigenous cover crops are encouraged and vine cuttings and root stocks are transformed into biochar, reducing erosion and improving soil structure.

These modern and innovative methods are the work of winemaker J-L Groux. A native of France's Loire Valley, J-L is renowned for creating distinctive wines based on the principle of assemblage, the art of combining different grape varieties to produce a wine that is the most complex expression of a vineyard's terroir. He creates a range of outstanding, age-worthy wines, including an ice wine.

Norman Hardie

Norman Hardie first planted vines back in 2003, after spending six years at the best cool-climate producers around the world – from South Africa to Burgundy. Today Norm is a vinous celebrity the world over, and his wines are served at top restaurants in every major city in Canada, America and across the world.

The vineyards are located in Prince Edward County and Niagara Peninsula, Ontario, which has become renowned for its unusual methods of protecting vines during the freezing winter months, when temperatures can plummet to -20C. This process involves surrounding the vines with a small trellis, which is then covered with earth, burying the vines so that they can survive the worst of the cold.

Truchard

The original Truchard winery was not in California but in Texas. Founded in 1887 by French brothers Jean-Marie and Anthony Truchard it lasted until the 1920s when Prohibition dried up all sales. The winemaking gene skipped a generation, resurfacing in the 1970s with Jean-Marie's grandson, Tony.

Stationed in California during the Korean War, Tony decided to follow in his grandfather's footsteps by buying 20ha of vines in Carneros. The cool climate of Carneros began to be recognised as a great area for Chardonnay and Pinot Noir. The estate itself is a series of hills and valleys with clay, shale, sandstone, volcanic rock, and ash soils.

Over the last four decades, Tony has expanded the estate to some 280ha and in 1989, the family released the first wine under their own label. Today, alongside his parents, Anthony Truchard works incessantly and passionately to maintain the integrity of his family's wines and loves sharing them with the world.

Walter Hansel

Before turning his hand to winemaking, Walter Hansel loved to grow everything – from kiwis to oriental pears. But it was in the 1970's that he endeavoured to plant 257 Chardonnay vines and in the years that followed both Walter and his son Stephen experimented with viticulture, developing their passion for winemaking.

The winery has come a long way since then, with Stephen now at the helm as owner and winemaker. One of its more unique features is that no one works full-time in the winery – whenever Stephen needs a helping hand, he enlists the help of his vineyard manager and crew.

The Walter Hansel Estate Pinot Noir won a gold medal at the 2017 SWA awards.

Forge Cellars

Forge Cellars is a small, artisanal producer based in the Finger Lakes area of New York state. The winery was set up by French winemaker Louis Barruol of Chateau Saint Cosme in the Rhone, whose search for a new wine adventure brought him to the US. The unique, coolclimate terroir he found there was irresistible and so Louis and two like-minded friends – Rick Rainey and Justin Boyette – decided to make the best Riesling and Pinot Noir possible.

The unusual landscape of the Finger Lakes is hundreds of thousands of years old – painstakingly carved out by wave after wave of glaciers. The lakes create a microclimate that helps mitigate the winter cold and creates a light breeze to cool down summer days.

Brazil

Miolo

The Miolo estate was founded in 1897, after Italian immigrant Giuseppe Miolo arrived in Brazil with a passion for grapes and vines. He bought a piece of land called Lote 43 and started to plant grapes, bringing the tradition of Italian winemaking to Brazil. Today, the business is still led by the Miolo family and one of the estate's most elegant wines is named after this first parcel.

After almost a century of growing grapes, the company started to make its own wine in 1990. Nowadays, Miolo produces red, white and sparkling wine, with grapes grown on 1,200ha of vineyards.

The aim of the winery is to create a range of wines that have Old World character, but with a Brazilian twist. They have become Brazil's number one producer; exporting more wine than any other Brazilian winery.

The winery is located in the Vale dos Vinhedos region, situated between the cities of Bento Goncalves, Garibaldi and Monte Belo. Translated as 'the valley of vineyards', the Vale dos Vinhedos is the only region in the country with a certification of geographical indication. However, Miolo have vineyards all over the country – all the way down to Campanha, by the Uruguayan border.

The winery produces a wide range of styles and varietals, but the stand-out range is their Traditional Method sparkling wines offering high-quality bubbles with great

Santa Rita

Heritage and tradition are at the heart of Santa Rita, which boasts over 130 years of wine production and experience.

Founded in 1880, Santa Rita has been one of the pioneers of the modernisation of Chilean viticulture - seeking out new regions to grow different varietals, with a focus on single vineyard plots and producing wines that express a sense of place. Today, Santa Rita is the number one selling winery in Chile with over 3,200ha of vineyards and 33 varieties.

Sustainability is at the core of their winemaking philosophy - they were the first wine group to be certified under Chile's National Code in 2011. But more recently, they have embarked on a major project to replant 380ha of vines over five years. The project, called WiSe (Wine & Seeds), has been devised to combat diminishing yields

Carage Wine Co.

Canadian ex-ski coach, Derek Mossmann Knapp, is the enfant terrible of the Chilean wine scene. His Garage Wine Co. is the polar opposite to the big, established companies that dominate the Chilean market. Everything is done by hand; from ploughing the old vines to painting the labels.

Garage began, quite literally, in a garage in 2001. After a few informal vintages for family and friends, Chile's El Mercurio newspaper referenced "that garage wine company" in an article about the growing grass roots movement of small wine producers. The name stuck.

Garage makes a series of small lots of eight to 17 barrels each. Working with small growers in the region, each wine Garage produces comes from a different parcel belonging to one farmer. No two farm's grapes are mixed – despite the small quantities they produce.

Maycas del Limari

Maycas del Limari is a boutique winery located in the Limari Valley of Chile. Founder and winemaker Marcelo Papa started the winery as he was looking for a new, innovative project that he could sink his teeth into, with a focus on creating highquality, premium wines. He explored various areas in Chile before discovering the Limari Valley – a place with exceptional characteristics... just what he was looking for.

The vines at Maycas are kept cool each night by the Camanchaca fog that approaches from the Pacific, which during the day acts as a protective element from the long hours of sunshine. Because of this, the grapes ripen incredibly slowly resulting in very fine and complex aromas.

Valdivieso

Valdivieso's history dates to 1879, when Don Alberto Valdivieso founded Champagne Valdivieso S.A., the first sparkling wine house in South America. In the early 1980s they began to produce still wines and Valdivieso has since become one of the most awarded Chilean wineries in the history of the Challenge International du Vin in Bordeaux.

Much of their recent success can be accredited to passionate and talented Kiwi winemaker, Brett Jackson. Based in Lontue, Valdivieso has a wealth of vineyards and the quality and unique attributes of the terroir is expressed in the single-vineyard wines. The range encapsulates everything that Chile excels at: rich, vibrant flavours and smooth, glossy textures.

Argentina

Catena

The story of Bodega Catena Zapata is a tale that travels from 19th-century Italy to the limestone soils of Mendoza. Nicola Catena, Nicolas Catena Zapata's grandfather, sailed from Italy to Argentina in 1898, leaving behind the results of his experiments spoke for his famine-stricken European homeland for a land of plenty and opportunity.

In 1902, he planted his first Malbec vineyard in Mendoza. Although Malbec had been a blending grape in Bordeaux, Nicola suspected it would find its hidden splendour in the Argentine Andes. It was a hunch that would not fully flower till nearly a century later.

Nowadays, it's impossible to talk about Argentinean wine for more than a few minutes without someone mentioning either Nicolas Catena or one of his wines. No-one has done more to put Mendoza on the map, or to raise the profile of Malbec from Bordeaux reject to one of the world's most fashionable grape varieties.

His journey to the top hasn't been easy, however, and plenty of people were sceptical when Nicolas started planting Malbec at ever higher altitudes in the Andes. Eventually themselves and others quickly followed in his footsteps. The family's commitment to research and development continues apace with Nicolas' daughter, Laura, now at the helm.

Laura, a biologist who graduated with honours from Harvard University, decided to instil in the winery team the method of research and study, what she calls "the science of understanding nature". They created the Catena Institute of Wine, enabling the team to conduct research aimed at getting a better understanding of the Argentine terroir, the characteristics of Mendoza, and to study every aspect of their vineyards with the ultimate goal of making Argentine wines that can stand with

Bodega Argento

Deeply rooted in the soils of Mendoza at the foothills of the Andes Mountains, Bodega Argento produces vibrant, elegant, fruit-driven wines packed with character, that embody the essence of modern Argentina. Their high-altitude vineyards, desert-like climate and natural irrigation from Andean snow melt create the perfect conditions to produce world-class grapes.

With head winemaker Silvia Corti, the winemaking team set out to unlock the extraordinary potential of Malbec, while also expanding their success to the production of Chardonnay, Pinot Grigio, Cabernet Franc, as well as an organic Malbec. Silvia's passion for wine comes from her upbringing in Mendoza and her wine is a pure expression of the region's terroir.

NEW | La Posta

A new collaboration with wine pioneer Laura Catena, La Posta is about celebrating some of the incredible small growers across Mendoza. 'La Posta' is the tavern where growers gather to share a glass of wine and stories about the harvest before their daily siesta, and the single vineyard wines – crafted by winemaker Estela Perinetti – are all named after the individual growers: Armando, Glorieta and Pizzella.

These wines are all from sub-regions of Mendoza – Guaymallen, Tupungato and La Consulta – and are not just Malbec dominated, but include a 100% Pinot Noir and Bonarda wine.

Bodega Garzón

Located in a picturesque setting on rolling hills 160 meters above sea level, Bodega Garzón is a family estate in one of the most idyllic parts of Uruguay. The land is split equally between vineyards and olive groves and the stunning views prompted consultant winemaker, Alberto Antonini, to liken the region to his native Tuscany. Despite the similarities in geography to Italy, the vineyards lie on the same latitude as New Zealand, between parallels 30° and 35° S. This means cool climate styles are the most prominent and, unusually for South America, Garzón's focus is on Tannat and Albarino.

Unique to the region, Garzón is leading the change in winemaking innovation, varietal experimentation, and sustainability. The winery's state-of-the-art architecture, built on natural terraces, was designed with energy efficiency in mind and allows the production to benefit from a gravity system and cuttingedge technology.

With the advice of Alberto, the rolling hills became a complex network of vineyards that produce top-quality wines with a strong identity, expressing the inimitable character and features of the Garzón terroir. Currently there are 12 grape varieties planted and more than 1,000 different plots, each with its own microclimate, orientation, varied levels of humidity, sun exposure and soil characteristics, lending a strong sense of place with incredible biodiversity. The vines also benefit from the cooling Atlantic breeze, blowing in from the ocean just 18km away.

Graham Beck

Graham Beck is a giant of the South African wine scene and have firmly established themselves as one of the world's leading sparkling wine houses. One of the foremost producers of Methode Cap Classique (MCC) - sparkling wine made in the Champagne method – Graham Beck are devoted to quality and consistency. Since the launch of their maiden MCC in 1991, their range of sparkling wines have been hailed by international icons such as Nelson Mandela and Barack Obama, as well as gaining an array of the industry's most prestigious awards.

Located in the Robertson region of South Africa, most of the work is done in the vineyard, where they strive for optimal ripeness and balance. "We focus on minimal 'Bubbles' Ferreira.

Their exceptional bubbly portfolio shows an unwavering dedication to the production of top sparkling wine. The portfolio has three tiers: the Non-Vintage Collection, Vintage Collection and Prestige Collection. While each of these wines expresses its own unique and authentic character, they all display the recognisable characteristics of being made the Graham Beck way. See p111.

intervention, allowing the authentic essence of the fruit and terroir to shine through in the final wine. The unique dry, cool climate of Robertson, combined with the rich limestone soils, produce wine with universal appeal and star quality," says cellarmaster, Pieter

NEW | Benguela Cove

Benguela Cove is located in the cool-climate region of Walker Bay in Hermanus, where Walker Bay meets the Bot River region. It's here that esteemed winemaker Johann Fourie produces a range of elegant, site-specific wines showcasing the unique sense of place. With a focus on Sauvignon Blanc, Pinot Noir and Syrah, Johann crafts wines of character and individuality, from both environmentally- and ethicallyaccredited vineyards.

With 70ha of vines, this is South Africa's longest stretch of ocean-facing vineyards, while also grown on its lowest altitude at a mere 2.7m above sea level. The south-easterly sea breeze is chilled by the Benguela current flowing up from Antarctica, cooling the grapes during the sunny growing season. This makes for a longer ripening period and ideal temperature fluctuation, resulting in smaller berries and low-yielding vines.

De Trafford

Producing only 3,500 cases of wine per year, De Trafford's focus on detail is exquisite. Situated on the picturesque Mont Fleur farm, the vines are planted 380m above sea level between the Stellenbosch and Helderberg mountains.

An architect by trade, owner David Trafford is a self-taught winemaker – who naturally designed his own gravityflow winery. "I never chose winemaking as a profession – it was thrust upon me. I chose architecture, but live on land with such great vineyard potential, it was impossible not to get involved in the wine business," he says. "It's about understanding and working with the vineyard to coax something magical from the land, after that it's hold thumbs you don't mess it up in the cellar."

David's architectural background can be seen in the blueprints that adorn the labels of his wines, while others are painted by his wife, fine art graduate and chef Rita Trafford.

The De Trafford Elevation 393 won a gold medal at the 2017 SWA awards.

Stellenrust

Stellenrust bottled their first wine on the farm in 1928. Today the farm comprises around 400ha (200ha planted), half of which stretches over the Golden Triangle area of Stellenbosch, and the other half is situated high up in the Bottelary Hills, renowned for its cool climate and late afternoon sea breezes swooping in from Cape Town.

The farm is run by brothers Tertius (winemaker) and Kobus (viticulturist), who are committed to following their father's dream: to give something back to the workers who have themselves given so much to the farm. As a Fairtrade producer they boast one of the most successful Black Economic Empowerment projects in South Africa. This has resulted in 70 employees taking ownership of the land they farm. Tertius says: "These are the men and women we grew up with, we played together when we were young and now we work together towards the same dream and goal."

The Stellenrust Barrel Fermented Chenin Blanc won a gold medal at the 2017 SWA awards as well as the Chenin Blanc Trophy at the 2017 IWSC awards.

NEW | Strydom Vineyards

Rianie and Louis Strydom are a real powerhouse couple in the South African wine scene. Winemakers at wellknown Stellenbosch producers Haskell Vineyards and Ernie Els respectively, they're also members of the esteemed Cape Winemakers Guild. After years of experimenting, they set up their own winery as a side project in 2012, crafting unique and totally artisanal wines.

With Louis looking after the vineyards, Rianie is the driving force and head winemaker behind this project. Rooted in nature and nurtured by family, Rianie relentlessly pursues excellence in winemaking and life. Her wines show a real sense of place and her goal is to create wines that will evolve and improve for years to come. She uses mostly larger-format barrels, as well as amphorae, in order to show off the best from each site.

Spier

The Spier 21 Gables Chenin Blanc, 21 Gables Pinotage and Creative Block 2 all won a gold medal at the 2017 SWA awards.

Xanadu

Founded in 1977 by Irishman Dr John Lagan, Xanadu is a true pioneer of the West Australian wine region of Margaret River. With a rich history of producing wines of uncompromising quality, Xanadu wines are renowned for their distinct character that embody all that is Margaret River.

Lovers of literature will remember Xanadu as Samuel Coleridge's mysterious, idyllic, exotic city; home of Kubla Khan. Dr Lagan, himself a great literature enthusiast, drew parallels between Coleridge's visions of utopia and his newly adopted home, and thus the name Xanadu was born.

True to its poetic namesake, Xanadu is located in an idyllic setting in the heart of Margaret River. Surrounded by magnificent coastline, warm growing seasons with cooling sea breezes create the perfect maritime climate that Margaret River is best known for. This Mediterranean climate and gravel sandy loam soils deliver ideal conditions enabling Chardonnay and Cabernet to flourish. These varieties alongside Sauvignon Blanc and Semillon, are the primary focus at Xanadu.

Under the helm of senior winemaker Glenn Goodall, winemaker Brendan Carr and viticulturalist Suzie Muntz create expressive regional wines of quality. This quest has seen Xanadu become one of Margaret River's most successful show winners of the past decade. With an impressive 65 major wine show trophies awarded since 2007, Xanadu's reputation continues to grow. See p122.

Fraser Gallop Estate

Set in 165 acres of pristine Wilyabrup countryside is a winery that is approaching its first decade of existence. Winemaker Nigel Gallop always dreamt of crafting incredibly complex wines, and that is precisely what he has done. His personal favourites, Cabernet Sauvignon and Chardonnay, highlight the quality of the Fraser Gallop range.

All vines on the Fraser Gallop Estate are farmed dryland (unirrigated), cane pruned and the fruit is all picked by hand. With meticulous attention to detail in the vineyard, it allows the winemaking team to craft wines that are truly expressive of their site and terroir – lean, restrained and perfectly elegant.

The Fraser Gallop Parterre Cabernet Sauvignon won a gold medal at the 2017 SWA awards.

Josef Chromy

Josef Chromy is a true success story based on hard work, experience and a deep-seated commitment to creating quality wine. Since arriving as a refugee from Soviet-occupied Czechoslovakia, Josef has been the driving force behind the Tasmanian wine scene.

At 76, when others think of retiring, Josef achieved his life-long dream of establishing a winery under his own name. In just a few short years, he has made a remarkable impact: his wines have been awarded over 14 trophies and 170 medals, making Josef Chromy one of the most successful winery launches in Australian history.

The Josef Chromy Pinot Noir 2015 won a gold medal at the IWC 2017 awards. Their Chardonnay also won a gold medal at the 2017 SWA awards.

Some Young Punks

Some Young Punks produces some stand-out wines – inside and out. Known for their striking pop art labels, the punks were on the front of the packaging revolution in Australia and always thought differently about how to package their wines.

With their punk attitude to winemaking, Colin McBryde, Jen Gardner and Nic Bourke make wines with charisma and attitude. "Each time we make a wine", they say, "it may be the last wine we make - and if it isn't worthy of being the last then it will never wear the Some Young Punks name."

Their contemporary approach means minimal use of oak and short ferments to retain maximum punchy vibrancy. The creative trio believe it's okay to judge these books by their covers, which are as bright and bold as the wines they clothe.

NEW | Spinifex Wines

"Spinifex epitomise a new wave of Artisan Barossa producers," says Matt Smith, Bibendum buyer for Australia. "Incredibly talented winemaker Peter Schell handcrafts small quantities of elegant, complex wines based around classic red Rhone varietals. They also produce a deliciouslyfresh and textural white, 'Lola', made from Semillon, Vermentino and Clairette."

Peter Schell and Magali Gely started Spinifex in 2001 and are part of the Artisans of Barossa, a group of like-minded producers with a common goal to protect and promote small-batch, subregional winemaking.

Wynns

Located in South Australia's southernmost wine region, Wynns is one of the country's oldest wineries – vines were first planted by founder John Riddoch in 1891. Coonawarra is where chief winemaker Sue Hodder has run Wynns for over two decades, and no-one understands the nuances of the region's famous terra rossa soils better than she does. The Siding is a classic Coonawarra Cabernet Sauvignon with a vibrant character.

While new wineries pop up and challenge the old guard, it is Wynns' Black Label Cabernet Sauvignon that remains the benchmark against which its rivals will be judged – given their proven track record of quality, consistency and flavour.

Yering Station

The Yering Station Village Pinot Noir won a gold medal at the 2017 SWA awards.

New Zealand

Craggy Range

When Terry Peabody launched Craggy Range in the late 1990s, a terroir-focused approach was employed to select unique parcels of land that would produce wines that spoke of their place.

This led to the selection of sites in the best, but often lesser known, wine growing regions of New Zealand: the Gimblett Gravels vineyard, located in Hawkes Bay on the east coast of New Zealand and the Te Muna Road vineyard, located just outside of the town of Martinborough on the lower North Island. Te Muna is divided into two terraces, with a focus on Pinot Noir and Sauvignon Blanc production. The Gimblett Gravels vineyard is split into 36 varietal blocks that have been matched to the variations in

are well on the way to achieving this.

Ara

The Ara Single Estate Pinot Noir won a gold medal at the 2017 SWA awards.

Huia

Handcrafted by winemakers Claire and Michael Allan, with daughters Tui and Sophie keenly involved, Huia is all about passion for the wine and the environment. Their wines are certified organic and they employ biodynamic practices, opting for minimal intervention throughout fermentation, using mainly wild yeast ferments.

Awarded 'Marlborough Sauvignon Blanc Winery of the Year 2017' by the New York International Wine Competition, Huia have also become synonymous with quality aromatic whites, Pinot Noir and sparkling wine from the Wairau Valley in Marlborough.

Millton

James and Annie Millton established their winery on the banks of the Te Arai River in the wine growing region of Gisborne in 1984. A pioneer of organic and biodynamic principles in the Southern Hemisphere, only two things matter to James and Annie: the quality of the wine and leaving the land in an improved state for future generations.

Unlike most New Zealand wineries who focus on Sauvignon Blanc, Millton specialise in unsung grape varieties such as Chenin Blanc, Gewurztraminer and Viognier. They consistently appear in fine dining venues worldwide and continue to receive numerous national and international accolades.

Spy Valley

Located up the road from a US government listening post (hence the name), Spy Valley is one of Marlborough's most acclaimed wineries. It's no secret that Marlborough Sauvignon Blanc is one of the world's favourite wines, and this family-run winery is known for its textbook, terroir-driven Sauvignon Blanc. But they don't stop there, and chief winemaker Paul Bourgeois and his team are also experts in producing brilliant aromatic whites, including Riesling and Pinot Gris.

Fortified & Stickies

"If you look at fine wine from a historical point of view, the best juice always came sticky sweet. Why? Why would someone want an already fantastic beverage to be super sweet as well? It's the rarity factor.

Nowadays sugar is considered to be the most harmful additive. Throughout my somm career I've seen too many people saying 'yuck' to a sweet wine before even taking a sip. Just give it a chance! Sweet wines of the highest level never have any added sugar whatsoever. All the sweetness comes from the sorting tables. grapes, and all the sugar that does not ferment to alcohol will remain in the juice to sweeten your wine. And what sweetness!

It is all about balance. And the component that balances sugar out is acidity: the more sugar, the more acidity, and the higher that balance is. If the wine has the right acidity it will feel crisp and fresh, and almost dry, with a magnificent honeyed texture.

Sweet wines are made with the most care and most invested human work wine can ever be made with. No kidding. Each and every berry that goes into sweet Tokaji for example has been hand picked, observed and quality assessed. You cannot really say the same about the most noble Bordeaux or Burgundy wines, regardless if they use optic white wines, popularised by figures such as Catherine the Great, Voltaire, President Jefferson and Queen Victoria. By the end of the 17th century these wines were so well regarded throughout Europe that Prince Rakoczi of Hungary and Transylvania (who then ruled Tokaj) was urged to classify the finest vineyards in the region. Tokaj was actually Europe's first classified wine region.

This popularity continued into the Victorian era. Queen Victoria was such a fan that the Austro-Hungarian Emperor sent her one bottle of Tokaji Aszu for every month she'd been alive, for her birthday every year. On her 81st and final birthday in 1900, this totalled an impressive 972 bottles."

Gergely Barsi Szabo, Bibendum fine wine Tokaji Aszu wines are Europe's original sweet sales and business development executive

Bodegas Alvear

Founded in 1729, Alvear is the second oldest winery in Spain and the oldest in Andalusia. Now, it is directed by the eighth generation of the Alvear family, who work to preserve the family heritage, the knowledge acquired and the values of the winery while keeping an eye on the future, and exploring the roots and particularities of the vineyards from la Sierra de Montilla.

Montilla is Pedro Ximenez country and the grape is used for both dry and sweet wines. The sweet wines are incredible: thick, sticky, treacle-like, Alvear's Solera 1927 contains wine from before the Wall Street Crash. The real surprise, however, is the Fino C.B. Produced from Pedro Ximenez, it is naturally made under the same flor yeast you find in Jerez.

Royal Tokaji Company

The Royal Tokaji has quickly become one of the most defining wineries in Tokaj. The winery was founded in 1990 by wine writer Hugh Johnson, who describes Tokaji as "a wine that would make angels sing out loud in praise". They focus on producing single-vineyard wines, made from the first growth vineyards of Mezes Maly, Nyulaszo, St Tamas and Betsek.

"Tokaji is a wine that would make angels sing out loud in praise."

Hugh Johnson, wine writer

Magnums & Minis

Bigger is certainly better when it comes to bottle size and our larger formats not only offer more to pour, but create some spectacular theatre when serving. These larger bottles are also the perfect vessels for ageing wine.

"The quality of the bag in box juice truly exceeds all expectations. To have fruity, easy-drinking wines from France at this price point make a great option for house pours. Preservation is very efficient - it lasts longer than an open bottle of wine. When bar staff aren't 100% confident with their wine knowledge, having a firmer guarantee on freshness is key."

Sake

ENTER.Sake

ENTER.Sake is a boutique sake collection curated by fully-trained sake sommelier Richie Hawtin. Richie has been exploring the world of sake for 20 years during his many trips to Japan as one of the world's leading electronic music artists. Originating inside his now dormant residency at Space in Ibiza, Richie created Europe's largest sake bar, stocked with special sakes not available anywhere else outside of Japan. Now ENTER.Sake is beginning a new phase, taking its sake collection to restaurants, bars and wine stores across the USA and Europe.

"Sake can be very delicate, so it will never overshadow the food. Sticking to the basics is key - we pair more oily dishes, like our raw fish Hawaiianthemed Poke, with a drier sake. Spicy dishes, such as our spicy chicken wings, go best with a more fruity or aged sake with natural acidity."

Niizawa Sake Brewing Co.

Brewing sake is part science, part labour of love. Any brewer will tell you that. What they won't tell you, is how they do it. Except Mr Niizawa. His fervent belief in openness is at odds with the strict secrecy with which a Toji normally regards their products. That's not to say he takes any less care. He encourages everyone at the brewery to blind taste, while he also practises every day, each time tasting exactly 4ml of sake. It's tough being so exact... But this is more than his job, it's his life.

An unexpectedly tragic turn came in 2011 when his brewery was gravely affected by the earthquake that caused so much destruction in this part of Japan. Breweries from across the country helped rebuild Niizawa and it's now situated on higher ground, where the bedrock is more solid. Today, the brewery stands tall. A reminder of the struggles of the past and Mr Niizawa's optimism for the future.

The Chita

This single-grain whisky is made by Japanese distillery, Chita. Founded in 1972 by master blender Keizo Saji, the distillery is located on the misty, calm shores of the Chita Peninsula. Using mainly corn grain and a continuous multiple column distillation process, the Chita Distillery makes three types of grain whiskies. Suntory Whisky (pictured) is delicate and sweet with subtle notes of mint, honey and wood spice, and is aged in a combination of wine, sherry and bourbon casks.

Lot 40

Twice named Canadian Whisky of the Year at the Canadian Whisky Awards, this is the rye to try. Lot 40 was a plot of land occupied by one of the ancestors of Mike Booth, the original master distiller, and the inspiration behind this label. Now crafted by master blender Dr. Don Livermore, who uses locallysourced ingredients and distils in a single copper pot still. The whisky is full of earthy, caramel and fig characters, with a smoky, vanilla finish and full body achieved by ageing in virgin oak barrels.

Eden Mill

Based in St Andrews, Eden Mill is Scotland's first combined brewery and distillery. It was founded in 2012 on the site of the legendary Haig distillery which started in 1810. Making beer, gin and whisky allows each to be subtly influenced by the other two. So you might find beer aged in whisky barrels, or gin made from hops. They are constantly experimenting, tinkering and tweaking to make things no-one has ever tasted before. They source everything ethically and, wherever possible, locally, using the green fields and wild coasts of Scotland for inspiration.

Ketel One

Founded in Holland in 1691, the Nolet distillery has been producing some of the highest quality spirits through 10 generations. Ketel One is crafted in small batches using copper pot stills, the oldest of which is Distilleer Ketel No 1, the copper pot from which the brand acquired its name. A member of the Nolet family personally approves every final production to ensure the crisp and sophisticated taste that Ketel One is renowned for, is produced every time.

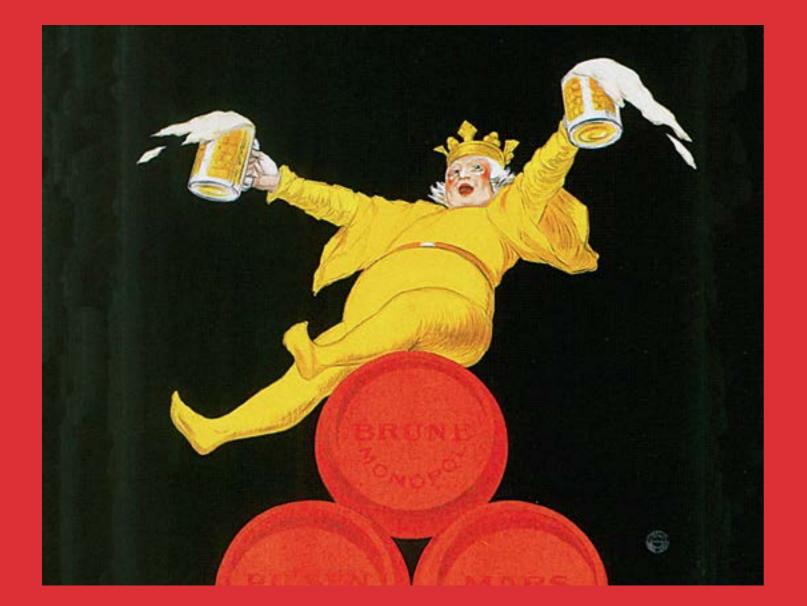

Fiorente

Fiorente is produced by the Francoli family, who have over 50 years' experience in producing elderflower-based liqueurs in the Italian Alps. All the ingredients used to make Fiorente are entirely natural, and with a lower sugar content than other elderflower liqueurs, it is designed to make the perfectly balanced spritz. Fiorente has vibrant floral aromas and freshness from the addition of lemon peel and mint, with just a touch of sweetness provided by honey.

Real McCoy

Based on the story of Bill McCoy, the pioneer rum runner of the Prohibition era, who in January 1920 became the first to fill a boat with alcohol in the Caribbean, sail it to New York City, and legally act as a floating liquor store three miles off shore, in international waters. Bill became known for only the best quality, unadulterated spirits, and so 'The Real McCoy' was born. Today the Real McCoy still produces the highest quality Barbados Rum, crafted in small batches and aged in American oak bourbon barrels.

Craft Beers & Ciders

We work closely with our exclusive suppliers and passionate brewers to provide the very best and exciting beers and ciders from around the world.

We offer a broad range of regional craft beers, such as Howling Hops and Birra del Borgo, authentic world beers such as Estrella Galicia and Asahi, as well as must-have new beers such as Hop House 13. We supply kegs to our larger and national customers, but predominantly focus on premium packaged beers and ciders for our growing regional Bibendum accounts.

"Beer drinkers tend to be more experimental than wine drinkers, because the cost is relatively low so they can afford to risk making a bad choice. Even if you spend more on something interesting, you can go for a half or even a third of a pint just to try it out. Likewise, staff are often more open to learning about the category: they're less afraid to have an opinion."

Emily Humphreys, Bibendum beer educator

Asahi Super Dry

On January 15 2018, Asahi UK boosted its strong portfolio of beer brands by relaunching Asahi Super Dry in its authentic form. With full access to the exact Japanese brewing standards, these innovations bring about the authentic taste of Asahi Super Dry.

This super-premium beer is served using hitech Japanese dispense technology, ensuring a pint in London will have the same serve

Founded in 1906 by the Rivera family, Estrella and taste as a pint in Tokyo. Asahi Super Dry was first produced in 1987 and set a Galicia can still be found in tapas bars across new standard for brewing. It was specifically Spain. The original factory was built by created to develop a dry, crisp taste with a young entrepreneur Jose Ma Rivera Corral, fresh finish that would cleanse the palate and and the brand is still 100% family-owned complement any type of food. It is brewed and independent. They now produce over 200 million litres of beer per year and are a with Asahi yeast, hops, barley and rice, and its unique dry, crisp taste is known as Karakuchi. household name across the globe.

Birra del Borgo

Starting life as a homebrew dream, Birra del Borgo was founded by a student who abandoned his studies to take a beer pilgrimage around Europe. Today the Birra del Borgo brewery is located about 60 miles east of Rome, and its beer styles are influenced by international brewing traditions. Named after an early 1900's hop store building at St. James's Gate where hops are still stored, Hop House 13 is a double-hopped lager made with Irish barley and aromatic hops and continues the 256 years of heritage and brewing excellence at St. James's Gate. Hop House 13 is a crisp and full-flavoured lager, with subtle malty notes and fresh hop aromas with hints of apricot and peach.

Hop House 13

Weird Beard

Weird Beard launched in 2012 and began life as a homebrew project. "We love upfront, in-your-face, hop-focused beers, along with classic styles," they say. In your face is perhaps the most apt way to describe them – with beer names like Little Things That Kill, Mariana Trench and Black Perle. Mariana Trench is the flagship beer, with a tropical fruit nose and light, malt sweetness.

Non-alcoholic

Seedlip

There are some brilliantly creative nonalcohol alternatives our there! Seedlip created the world's first non-alcoholic spirit, answering the age-old question, 'what to drink when you're not drinking?' Served in some of the best cocktail bars, Michelin starred restaurants and luxury hotels in the world, Seedlip also works well in a wide array of food led bars and gastro pubs.

Originally created using a small copper still and herbs grown on founder Ben Branson's own farm, Seedlip is a blend of individual botanicals crafted together to produce a sophisticated alternative to alcohol.

The method was inspired by the book, The Art of Distillation, which described early 1600s Apothecaries using small copper stills to make non-alcoholic herbal remedies. Ben Branson, with a copy in hand and a copper still, repurposed the ancient notion to create the world's first distilled non-alcoholic spirit.

This year Seedlip announced plans to launch a whole new range of non-alcohol alternatives - watch this space!

Premium mixers & cocktail ingredients

Primrose Hill

Taking inspiration from the colourful walls of the Georgian townhouses around Regents Park Road and Chalcot Square, the Primrose Hill range of premium natural mixers tap into the trend for heritage, locality and provenance. With more fizz in the bottles than other leading premium mixers, the longer lasting bubbles keep drinks fresher for longer.

Fever-Tree

We have established a great relationship with the premium mixer experts at Fever-Tree. With their help, we've created a perfect serve gin guide to ensure all Bibendum Account Managers can advise on a selected range of gin styles, as well as pairing it with the recommended Fever-Tree mixer and garnish.

Sandows Cold Brew Coffee

Espresso Martinis are a growing trend and Sandows Cold Brew Coffee is right up there with the best when it comes to rich coffee flavours and getting that silky foam cap. Their Cold Brew Concentrate has the same intensity of flavour as an espresso, and will also foam when shaken into a cocktail, making it the ideal product for bars that don't have room for a coffee machine.

Customer Marketing

Design clever and sell more, better drinks

The Bibendum Customer Marketing team can help you enhance your customers' experience and increase your sales by encouraging your customers to trade up to something new, exciting, delicious and more profitable. We can support you with bespoke drinks list design, annual activation plans, merchandising and much more - all of it built around our marketleading insights.

"We like to think of ourselves as an extension of our customers' marketing team, working side by side to deliver inspirational plans that, when activated, will make our customers' customers want to come back for more."

Lisa Newman, head of customer marketing

Award-Winning Training Inspiring passion and confidence to sell better drinks

Training your staff has numerous benefits - from improving the customer experience and growing your sales, to increasing morale and better staff retention.

Let our experts guide you

Our training team don't believe that one size fits all when it comes to training. We pride ourselves on providing you with a training solution that fits your needs, and offer a free Training Needs Assessment service to make sure we get it right for you.

Wine Confidence – New

As our first blended learning course, Wine Confidence incorporates a one-day workshop with three months' access to our digital learning service. This course is designed to increase knowledge around wine, enabling learners to confidently recommend wines to customers, while it also provides practical skills and knowledge to those who work with wine in their roles. After the course, students can continue to access the digital resources to refresh and top up their knowledge.

WSET qualifications

Offering Levels 1, 2 and 3, our team of educators offer more than just the WSET syllabus. Bringing the topics to life, we make these in-depth courses relevant to vour business.

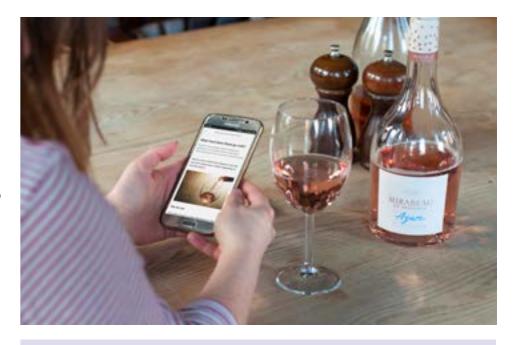

All our WSET courses come with access to our e-learning portal with specifially designed resources to support you to achieve the best grade possible.

Train the Trainer

An interactive half-day workshop for those who want to learn how to effectively cascade their wine knowledge to their staff.

Beyond wine

Alongside our core wine courses, we offer training on other drinks categories including introductions to craft beer, spirits and sake.

Bibendum head of customer training, Julia Bailey, says, "In a fast-paced, information-overloaded and convenience-led world, it's increasingly challenging to engage staff and keep training relevant. As a result, we've added a digital element to our training offer through our new e-learning platform.

Our philosophy is simple - we make wine and spirits fun, easy to understand and accessible to everyone. Our award-winning learning and development specialists are wine and spirits geeks. With over 10 years' worth of experience, they're experts at designing and delivering training that works for you. Not only do they know how to improve wine and spirits knowledge of your staff in a way that sticks, they also give them the confidence and skills to sell it too.

Launching e-learning

Last year our training team started offering e-learning to customers as part of our 'blended learning' approach.

"This platform enables staff to dip in and out of the training anytime, anywhere. It has dozens of films, articles and quizzes, with each introducing new knowledge and skills in no more than a couple of minutes. It is designed to give users the confidence to talk about their venue's drinks and to bring them to life. It also enables managers to keep track of staff's training progress."

While e-learning is increasingly important, it's not simply a matter of taking it online. Julia explains, "It's about an entirely new approach to the way we help people to learn. Blended learning is our way of combining e-learning with traditional classroom methods and independent study to create a new, more impactful, hybrid teaching methodology."

If you're interested in finding out more, please speak to your Account Manager or visit the training page on the Bibendum website.
